Congress—War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — War critics in Congress, strengthened by a House vote against continuing the bombing of Cambodia, laid plans Friday for an attempt to cut off all funds for the Indochina War.

Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said they would move quickly to attach their tough antiwar measure to a State Department authorization bill before it emerges from the Senate Foreign Relations Committee next week.

The committee scheduled meetings Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday on the bill and most likely will approve some version of the Church-Case amendment, which would bar any funds appropriated by Congress to be used for hostilities anywhere in Indochina without prior congressional authorization.

In the House, meantime, war critics found themselves in the majority for the first time since Vietnam began, and they vowed to follow through with strong action to force disengagement.

"I foresee an antiwar in Cambodia amendment on every piece of legislation on which that kind of amendment is germane," said Rep. Lucien Nedzi, D-Mich. "On anything that comes up, it is going to be attached."

Meanwhile, Pentagon spokesmen said military operations can be cut drastically around the world so that the Cambodia bombing can continue despite the expected congressional ban on funds for the air war.

In its first antiwar stand in the history of the Indochina War, the House voted 219 to 188 Thursday to reject the Defense Department's request to transfer $430 million from its weapons account into the account from which the bombing is financed.

A second House vote minutes later prohibited use of any of the $2.8 billion in the supplemental defense appropriations bill for the rest of the current fiscal year to support the war in Cambodia.

Angela Davis

CHICAGO (AP) — Angela Davis, militant self-avowed member of the Communist Party, accused the Nixon administration Friday of attempting to cripple antigovernment organizations through political imprisonment of their leaders.

"The administration, the most corrupt in our nation's history, is decapitating existing radical structures by imprisoning leaders and removing the organizations from the communities where they are working," she told a news conference.

Miss Davis, Clyde Bellecourt of the American Indian Movement and several other civil rights leaders appeared at the start of a conference to organize a structure to defend "victims of racist and political repression."

Conference leaders said representatives of 500 movements, including labor unions and church organizations, were expected to participate in the organizational session.

"We have no specifics yet, not even a name," Miss Davis said. "That's what we're here to work out."

She said the idea for a nationwide defense organization came to her when she saw "the mass support which led to my acquittal."

Skylab Countdown

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The three Skylab 1 astronauts were pronounced "ready to fly" Friday following day-long medical examinations, and the double countdowns toward launch of the Skylab space station and of the astronauts' rocket proceeded smoothly and on schedule.

In their last major preflight activity before the start of their 28-day mission, astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz were put through exhaustive physical checks at the Johnson Space Center near Houston.

Dr. Royce Hawkins, deputy director for medical operations at JSC, said the medical tests "went extremely well and we feel confident that the crew is ready to fly. We saw no medical problems" which would affect the mission.

Doctors also used the medical tests to gather basic data on each of the spacemen. This data will be compared later with the results of similar tests performed in orbit aboard Skylab.

Irish Bombings

BELFAST (UPI) — The sister-in-law of Bernadette Devlin, a leader of the Catholic civil rights movement in Northern Ireland, was hurt Friday in a bomb explosion that destroyed a policeman's private car she was sitting in.

A police spokesman said Colette McAliskey, 21, whose brother, Michael, married Miss Devlin last month, suffered leg wounds and shock when the bomb exploded as the off-duty policeman turned on the ignition in his car. The policeman and two other women in the vicinity of the blast near Queen's University in central Belfast were also hurt.

Miss Devlin has long been a leader of the Catholic civil rights movement in the province and is a member of the British parliament.

In other bombings Friday, a 50-pound device planted in an auto exploded near the Lisburn railroad depot, five miles southwest of Belfast, injuring six persons, most of them railway staff. A 500-pound bomb destroyed a bridge on the Irish border, severing the main road between Clones in the Republic and Rosslea in Northern Ireland but causing no casualties.

Scandal Ends Ellsberg Trial

Byrne Dismisses Charges

LOS ANGELES: Daniel Ellsberg kisses his wife, Patricia, outside the Federal Building here after U.S. District Judge Matt Byrne dismissed all charges against Ellsberg and co-defendant Anthony Russo, Jr., in the Pentagon Papers case here. Brandt's 'Ostpolitik' Gathers New Impetus BONN, GERMANY (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt brightened the outlook for an historic Soviet-German summit next week by steering his all-German normalization treaty through parliament Friday. He also gained a negotiating victory from Moscow.

The lower house of parliament voted overwhelmingly for ratifying Brandt's December 1972 treaty that will regulate relations with East Germany and enable the two Germans to enter the United Nations this year.

Brandt announced that Moscow had backed down in a dispute over Communist-encircled West Berlin, clearing the way for five important Soviet-German agreements to be signed when Russian leader Leonid I. Brezhnev arrives for an unprecedented Bonn summit next Friday.

The developments gave new impetus to Brandt's "Ostpolitik" policy of friendship with the Soviet Bloc.

The Bundestag, Bonn's lower house, voted 268-217 to approve the all-German treaty, and Brandt won votes from a divided opposition for an even larger 365-121 margin supporting west German U.N. membership.

The treaty was virtually certain to become law after upper house consideration and exchange of ratification documents with East Germany.

The pact eases more than two decades of tension and provides for future cooperation agreements.

The government claims the treaty gives hope for eventual German reunification, but Brandt conceded that nothing at present "indicates that the broken German national state could rise again." The opposition charged that the pact cements German division for all time.

White House Ordered CIA To Aid In Heist

WASHINGTON (AP) — In Watergate - related developments Friday, the Senate committee on Watergate asked in court for copies of the documents that ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III placed in a bank safe-deposit box, turning the key over to Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

Sirica has scheduled a hearing Monday for disposition of the documents. The White House has asked formally that they be returned, while the court retains copies.

L. Patrick Gray, who quit as FBI chief in the heat of Watergate, spent much of the afternoon talking with federal prosecutors while waiting to be called before the grand jury. It was not learned whether he testified before the grand jury adjourned.

At the same time, the former deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency told a House subcommittee the CIA cooperated in the Ellsberg-psy-chiatrist burglary because the order came from the White House.

In Tampa, Fla., accountant George Hearing pleaded guilty to charges that he took part in publishing and distributing a fake letter during the Florida presidential primary campaign. The letter accused two Democratic presidential candidates of sexual misconduct.

Four of the men who pleaded guilty to conspiracy, burglary and wiretapping in the Watergate burglary were granted testimonial immunity for their appearance before the Senate Watergate committee. Two, Bernard Barker and Eugenio R. Sirica, were granted immunity by chief U.S. District Court Judge John Sirica. (UPI Telephoto)

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Pentagon papers trial judge dismissed all charges against Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo on Friday, declaring that extraordinary misconduct by the government had irreparably damaged the defendants' right to a fair trial.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne made it clear he was dismissing the conspiracy, espionage and theft charges "with prejudice" — meaning that he was preventing another trial of the defendants on the same charges.

Asked whether the government would seek to pursue prosecution of the two, an assistant prosecutor, Warren Reese, said, "It's dead."

Byrne's decision followed disclosures that the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist had been broken into with the knowledge of White House staff members and that Ellsberg had been overheard in federal wiretaps. In addition to dismissing the charges, the judge declared a mistrial.

"The conduct of the government has placed this case in such a posture it precludes the fair and dispassionate consideration of issues by the jury," Byrne said.

After the decision was announced, Ellsberg told newsmen he plans numerous suits, including one against President Nixon.

"We will bring suit against all the conspirators, of which the President appears to be the ringleader," Ellsberg said. "The President has led a conspiracy to deprive us of our civil liberties."

Post At Lebanese Border Assaulted

BEIRUT (UPI) — Palestinian guerrillas Friday attacked a customs post on Lebanon's northern frontier for the second time in two days despite the cease-fire agreement but were driven back across the border into Syria, the Lebanese army reported.

A guerrilla spokesman in Damascus said Lebanese warplanes attacked Palestinian guerrilla positions in East Lebanon with rockets and machinegun fire late Friday "despite our complete commitment to the cease-fire agreement." He said it was the fourth consecutive day of such air raids.

In Beirut an explosion blew up a civilian car 100 yards from a joint army-guerrilla observation post.

The army reported no incidents of any kind in southeastern Lebanon where thousands of guerrillas from Syria battled Lebanese forces at scattered points over a 50-mile stretch of the border Wednesday before the cease-fire was declared.

There was no confirmation, however, of reports published abroad that the estimated 4,000 to 5,000 guerrillas who infiltrated from Syria with tanks and artillery Tuesday and Wednesday were withdrawing.

Reports from the Israeli frontier town of Metulla said Lebanon's southeast border area appeared tranquil Friday. Lebanese farmers worked their fields and security measures seemed relaxed, the reports said. They said Lebanese taxi passengers smiled and waved as they zipped by Israeli army patrols, separated from each other by a few yards of space and an unfortified wire fence.

U.S. Jets Continue Cambodian Runs

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — American warplanes flew raids over broad areas of Cambodia Friday within 24 hours after the U.S. House of Representatives voted to block further use of defense funds for continued bombing of the country.

The House action Thursday in Washington is still subject to Senate approval and a possible confrontation thereafter between Congress and President Nixon about the war powers of the chief executive.

Strikes by American planes Friday ranged across southern Cambodia and north of Phnom Penh. Some were so close to Cambodian forces fighting off rebel attacks that U.S. air controllers refused to authorize them until they were assured that "the ground commander assumes responsibility for short rounds," meaning those which could possibly land on government units.

Military sources said the major targets Friday were rebel positions around Takeo, a besieged provincial capital 55 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, and Kampot, 93 miles to the southeast near the Gulf of Thailand.

Other major raids were flown along Highway 5 northwest of Phnom Penh and in areas to the south of the capital, the sources said.

The Cambodian high command said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops had carried out 2,842 ground attacks and shelling inside Cambodia during the past 3½ months in violation of sections of the Paris accord on Vietnam that dealt with Cambodia and Laos. A total of 1,594 Cambodian troops and 229 civilians have been killed in the incidents, it said.

Vietnam Accord Implementation

SAIGON (AP) — The remains of 20 American prisoners who died in captivity have been removed from Hanoi's municipal cemetery to another location about 35 miles away, in accordance with local tradition, a visiting U.S. military team was told Friday.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said in a statement that North Vietnamese officials would not allow the American team to visit the more distant burial location during their five-hour stay in Hanoi, citing insufficient travel time.

In other developments, the White House announced Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho will meet in Paris next Thursday to talk about implementing the Indochina peace accord.

Two joint military peace-keeping helicopters flown by South Vietnamese crews and carrying Viet Cong representatives were forced down by gunfire in a Communist-controlled region near An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon. No casualties were reported.

A Saigon command spokesman said the Viet Cong apologized for the incident, blaming it on a lack of communication with militia units in the field. One of the helicopters was slightly damaged. The Viet Cong cleared both to return to Saigon, and they returned late Friday.

The Viet Cong proposed at a meeting of the Joint Military Commission what they termed a new five-point proposal to bring about a true cease-fire.

Its main provisions include a withdrawal of the two opposing sides to the positions they held prior to the cease-fire Jan. 28; an appeal to field commanders to halt the shooting; selection of one region as a pilot area for implementing the truce; full deployment of military observers in the field; and a preventive program to quash trouble before it erupts.

The plan is similar to a three-point proposal put forth two days ago by the Viet Cong delegation to the two-party political negotiations in Paris. The earlier proposal was immediately rejected by Saigon.

Searchlight Of The Press

Much has been said in praise of the Washington Post's penetrating, sustained coverage of the wide-ranging Watergate scandal. The capstone has been set on that sentiment, now, with the award to the Post of the 1973 Pulitzer Prize for meritorious public service.

The bestowal of this accolade is doubly welcome. It is well deserved recognition of what a great newspaper in our capital city has done to illuminate wrongdoing in high places. But the award is gratifying, also, because the Post's Watergate coverage so dramatically gave the lie to attacks on the press as a grossly biased and self-serving institution.

The contrary is further emphasized by the fact that another Pulitzer Prize went to reporters for the Knight Newspapers who brought to light Sen. Thomas Eagleton's history of psychiatric treatment. Neither Republican nor Democratic parties have escaped the searchlight of keen reporting. The public has been well served in both instances.

Borneo, Ecology Disaster Area

Science Service reports what must be a classic case of "ecological backlash."

It all began when the World Health Organization sprayed a village in Borneo with DDT in an effort to eradicate malaria. The spraying killed the mosquitoes all right, but cockroaches built up an immunity to the poison and concentrated it in their bodies.

Household lizards called geckos ate the cockroaches and became ill, falling prey to the many cats that roamed the village. As both cats and lizards died from the effect of DDT, disease-carrying rats began to multiply and caterpillars began gnawing at the thatched roofs, endangering houses with collapse.

Fortunately, a planeload of cats, dropped by parachute, helped restore the balance of nature.

"What happened in Borneo is another example of how man's attempt to control nature has led to disaster as often as to solution," says Jonathan Waage of Brown University.

A long and loud "A-M-E-N" to Mr. Ben Loudermilk's letter of May 7 in defense of President Nixon!

(Mrs. Edgar A.) Mary Franz
348 Sandusky
Jacksonville, Illinois

To The Editor:

The attack in the free press (newspaper) on the "free press" by a local minister was read with some concern. He seems to suggest that the press is unfairly finding White House Officials guilty of wrong doing before they are tried by a court. The minister later stated on the radio that in America all are presumed innocent until proven guilty. He apparently questions why President Nixon should have to prove himself as uninvolved.

If these officials are so innocent why are they resigning good paying positions which some have held for a long time. What about the two staff members already convicted by the courts, not by the press.

"If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen," were the wise words of Harry Truman who also endured a few scandals. "Law 'n' Order Attorney General Mitchell was the first to vacate the kitchen soon after the Watergate arrests, allegedly to save his marriage to Martha. It is now being pointed out that past and recent statements by Mitchell and other officials do not appear to agree very well. Recently there has been almost a mass exodus of White House presidential assistants along with the resignations of the F.B.I. director and another attorney general. President Nixon has taken to the free press T.V. to assume "full responsibility" for the whole mess. Later he told the reporters in essence to "continue to give me hell when you feel that I am wrong."

Perhaps the minister and others feel that damage has been done to our great president and our national integrity by the painful press disclosures. This is certainly true and unfortunate, but it would have been a far worse national disaster, if the "sin in the camp" had not been exposed. Who knows the extent of deceptions, manipulations and illegal tactics that may have been used in the next four years by those who preached but never fully practiced law and order.

"Be sure your sin will find you out" is a Biblical maxim that applies to kings, presidents, governors and peons alike.

Recently I was pleased to see on the free T.V. Mayor Daley and Governor Walker joining in prayers for President Nixon. Did they find him guilty without a trial by praying for him? No, they showed respect and forgiveness for the national leader who can make a few mistakes while accomplishing some very outstanding achievements, such as ending the war in Vietnam and improving relations with China and Russia. "To err is human, to forgive is divine."

I believe that we will emerge from the Watergate affair as a safer and better nation, though a few heads have rolled. It is my hope and prayer that President Nixon will survive this and emerge as still an effective leader, though a sadder and wiser man. King David overcame a great national sin and scandal and continued effective, being described as "a man after God's own heart."

As a result of the work of this "prying and persistent press", the local minister may be just a mite safer when he ascends into the pulpit to denounce "sin in high places." Still an Optimist.

Friction Between Walker, Hartigan Persists

By MICHAEL ROBINSON,
Associated Press Writer
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Friction between Gov. Daniel Walker and Lt. Gov. Neil F. Hartigan began increasing with their shotgun marriage on the Democratic ticket last year.

The friction is still there. Hartigan and Walker campaigned separately for the most part and have never seemed to get along. The sniping and calculated slights have persisted, to the point where the lieutenant governor even had a hard time finding an office. First Hartigan refused to resign, upon his election as lieutenant governor, his Democratic Party post of the 49th Ward committeeman in Chicago. At their victory news conference, Walker, Hartigan and their families smiled for the cameras amiably. But Walker said firmly that Hartigan should resign as committeeman and Hartigan just as firmly refused. Then Walker refused to give Hartigan an office. The lieutenant governor, who under the new constitution no longer presides in the state Senate, was kicked out of his quarters behind that chamber. It was assumed that he would take up lodgings with Walker.

But Walker gave the space wanted by Hartigan to his counsel, William I. Goldberg. Finally, Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett was prevailed upon to find an area for Hartigan in his own suite.

To add to Hartigan's frustration, Walker invited the lieutenant governor to no cabinet meetings. And he set the salary of his own top aide, Victor DeGrazia, at $500 more than the one enacted by the lawmakers for Hartigan.

Gradually, the report began to spread that Hartigan had been told by DeGrazia as early as July "you'll have the formal office but you'll have no power."

Hartigan has long confided that he was upset about the bum's rush he had been receiving at the hands of the governor. Finally, he acted.

Last week, he lashed out at the administration, calling Walker "isolated" and terming some of his aides "high-priced negativists."

The way the feud has developed, both sides can get something out of it. Walker can symbolically separate himself from Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley merely by seeming to be at war with Hartigan. To adopt the young lieutenant governor as one of the fold would blur the image of the administration as one that is opposed to "the machine" and "politics as usual."

Hartigan, in turn, probably is more heavily covered by the news media now than if there were no feud.

Meanwhile, he is at work on the one assignment that Walker did give him: to try to win federal approval for an Illinois site for the proposed St. Louis Metropolitan Airport. And he has differed with Walker on a few key issues around which significant support could be mobilized.

They included the Chicago Transit Authority operating subsidy, a budget increase for the Illinois Arts Council and funds for the Commission on the Aging.

Whether the feud could become more earnest three years from now when the Democratic governorship primary rolls around is a question that gets asked casually around the statehouse, but nobody thinks that the answer will be known for some time.

Nixon Trade Bill Felt Shy Of Goal

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The potentially restrictive features of President Nixon's trade bill which are aimed at appeasing worried labor leaders do not impress all trade specialists as a substantive threat to more liberal commerce.

The bill would, among many things, give Mr. Nixon power to raise trade barriers as well as lower them, and would introduce the concept of domestic market disruption as a gauge on injury to U.S. jobs.

While this troubles free traders, some experts think there is less in the proposal than meets the eye.

They contend that the President's attitudes are not thought to be protectionist and that he would be little inclined to hike barriers. They argue further that the bill really doesn't go much beyond present law in equipping him with authority to check imports.

They see the bill's advertised protectionist elements as valuable mostly in giving AFL-CIO President George Meany "something to hang his hat on" and yet blocking the far more restrictive Burke-Hartke trade quota bill.

These views emerged in a trade bill discussion under auspices of the research organization, the Brookings Institution. But they were not general. For instance, one Brookings man, Fred Bergsten, believes the Nixon proposals would give a "sharp tilt" toward the prospects for tighter restrictions on imports. He thinks they strengthen presidential power in this regard.

One thing becomes plainer as the trade debate sharpens: Even many free traders are tending to have some compassion for the labor leaders' advancing protectionism today.

Some unions which feel menaced by imports have lost up to 20 per cent of their membership in recent years as their jobholders increasingly have been washed away by the competing in-flow of goods from Japan, Western Europe and other areas.

Diminishing power for some of the old-time unions is an evident consequence. In Bergsten's judgment, the current trade flows are "pushing people out of these unions into fields tough to organize."

These fields, of course, are the service enterprises and government, the biggest "growth sectors" in the U.S. economy. People in such new jobs are heavy beneficiaries, furthermore, of cheap imports and thus unlikely to fight for barriers even when their areas are unionized.

Surveys are said to show little public support for new restrictions on trade. But there does appear to be real interest in safeguarding American workers from the consequences of trade-related job loss. In hard terms, this translates into "adjustment" features — money benefits for affected workers, and retraining programs.

A case can be made that Mr. Nixon's bill makes it easier to qualify for adjustment pay. But there is agreement that benefit levels are lower than at present, and this is widely seen as a flaw in his proposals.

Ann Landers:

Suddenly Remembers Advice About Dads, Stepdaughters

Dear Ann Landers: I have been married to this man for 12 years. My daughter by a previous marriage is 15. Bill has been a good father to Wendy and to our own two children.

About two years ago I noticed that Bill fooled around with Wendy a lot, punching her, pulling her on his lap, and tickling her. She would run giggling and screaming into the other room. It seemed like innocent fun and I said nothing, although he never behaved like that with our own two daughters.

Lately he has been walking into Wendy's bedroom "to hurry her up" when she is dressing. This morning I heard her shout, "Please, will you knock first? I hate it when you just walk in and I have nothing on."

I had a private chat with Wendy that night and she said he has never done anything "wrong" but she wishes her stepdad would "leave her alone." Wendy is very mature for 15 and now I suddenly remember other letters in your column about fathers and stepdaughters. Please repeat the advice. I blocked it out of my consciousness and now I know why.—Freud Was No Fool

Dear Freud: The advice goes like this: A 15-year-old girl is more of a woman than a child. She is old enough to tell a stepfather, a boyfriend or a Funny Uncle to keep his pea-pickin' hands off her body—if she really wants them kept off. Some teenagers are testing their wov-power just to see if it works, so don't make any rash assumptions. Mom. That train runs both ways.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been able to handle life's major problems without help. But the petty things somehow get ballooned into enormous proportions. Doesn't a four-generation photograph mean four people in the same family, such as a great-grandmother, grandmother, mother and the baby—all directly related? If, say, the baby is adopted, doesn't that break the bloodline?

Please put your answer in the paper. If I produced a letter from you they'd say I wrote it myself. You can't imagine the arguing that has been going on in regard to this difference in opinion.—Fur Is Flying In Austin, Texas

Dear Fur: Yes, I CAN imagine. And from the way you worded the question, I'll bet you aren't going to be happy with my answer.

An adopted child should have exactly the same status as any other child. And this goes for family pictures as well as everythings else.

Dear Ann Landers: You seem to be straightforward and not afraid to say exactly what you think. Please don't let me down. The problem is with my parents.

Is there anything wrong with correcting your dad or mother if they say something fake in front of company? I was brought up to think that lying is wrong no matter who does it. If a kid is taught that he must always tell the truth and then he hears one of his parents breaking that rule, is it wrong to say so in front of whoever happens to be there? I hope you get the picture.—A Correcter in Trouble

Dear Correcter: I get the picture all right, but I'd like to point out that tact and consideration for a person's feelings can be just as important as honesty. You should have waited until the company left before you "corrected" your parents. No one likes to be hauled up short in front of his friends.

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, MAY 12—Born today, you are one of those eager persons who are constantly on the alert for new experiences. It matters little to you whether those experiences are physical or mental in character, just so long as they are current and constant. You find intellectual and emotional stimulation in very nearly everything you do, but time grants tolerance and you find with the advancing years that you are in need of an ever-increasing degree of newness, difference, danger, or whatever in order to take real joy in any given event.

Basically philosophical, you enjoy the study and discussion of whatever brings you closer to an understanding of life, living, and learning. You do not shy away from any truth no matter how unpleasant; for this reason, you are willing to pursue any subject to any end just so long as in the process you are able to add to your store of knowledge. And because you are yourself enthusiastic about learning, you are able to interest others in intellectual endeavors.

Inclined to rush routine matters through to their predictable conclusions in order to gain extra time for those interesting and exciting projects which carry you intellectually and spiritually beyond the ordinary, you will have to be careful not to slight custom. You will have to remind yourself often that before you can move into the unknown, you must thoroughly familiarize yourself with the known.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Sunday, May 13
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)—Cooperate with others in their efforts to make the day an especially enjoyable one for young people. A celebration may well be in order; join in!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)—A bit of honest hard work never hurt anybody—even on Sunday! Circumstances may be such that you'll have to take your "day of rest" some other time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)—The desire to set things straight on the home front and the ability to do so are two different things. Consider asking for professional help.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)—A well-organized morning should see you well on the way toward a day successful on all levels of endeavor. Morning worship lends cheer.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)—A discussion of the budget may be in order today. Gather the family around you and "have it out." Remember, however, to let the youngest speak out.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)—Where there is a difference of opinion within the family circle, you would be wise to put your own desires second. Strive for solidarity.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)—Tie up loose ends before they become so plentiful that you cannot distinguish them one from the other. Reconsider a decision of yesterday.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)—Make sure that articles of value are safely stored away when not in use. You could lose something very dear—in both senses of the word.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)—An atmosphere of harmony is required if you are to be able to concentrate on new plans for the future. Seek to convert all doubters.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)—Counteract a tendency to be overly introspective with an effort to be outgoing. Put your best foot forward; get out and meet new people.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)—Instinct and intuition can take you far this morning—but they may well trip you up during afternoon and evening. Count on intellect if you would be sure.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)—Morning worship brings you an unexpected opportunity to do a good deed for one who would not dream of asking for a favor. You can repay a debt.

RANDY COOPER TO SPEAK AT CHURCH IN MURRAYVILLE

AT HOME

Kangaroo mamas have one advantage over "human" mamas—their crib is "built-in." There's no need for them to dash around the house to give Junior tender loving care. He is always nearby, located quite conveniently for mother's attention.

Any mother's attention is crucial in providing a child with the religious foundations needed to produce a responsible adult. Enough freedom so that he can be independent — enough discipline to provide structure for his life. And moral precepts instilled by the Church and parental example.

One day Junior will outgrow mama's pouch or crib. Then, and only then, can parents know if they have been successful.

Israel Extends Olive Branch Of Peace To Its Arab Enemies

By ROBERT SLATTER
JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel ended its 25th anniversary celebrations Monday by extending an olive branch of peace to its Arab enemies—and a warning if they choose war instead.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban issued the appeal for peace in a television speech in Arabic, addressed to President Anwar Sadat of Egypt. Defense Minister Moshe Dayan sent the word of warning.

Shortly after screaming jets, clanking armor and marching infantry paraded in Jerusalem, the first such show of power in five years, a UH1E Bell helicopter made an emergency landing on Mt. Scopus and injured nine soldiers aboard, all but one of them only slightly.

The helicopter did not take part in the nationwide flyover of jet warplanes, droning propeller-driven Stratocruisers, Dakotas and Hercules and clattering assault helicopters. It was on an observation flight guarding against possible Arab guerrilla attacks along the parade route.

But there were no incidents. Most Israeli officials went to parties to usher out the end of their country's first quarter century. One party was held for the crews of the 400 planes that participated in the flypast.

"The air force flyover," Dayan told them, "was not meant as a demonstration to deter the enemy, but it may have provided food for thought to those who have recently been voicing threats of war."

"We all desire peace, security, a just society and a healthy economy, but all of these cannot be achieved just by talking but rather by doing," he said.

Dayan described Israel's air force as the peak of the armed forces power and "its crowning glory" and said that if it must fight, it will do so briefly and "beyond the skies of Israel."

Eban's peace speech came earlier on the country's Arabic language television channel, heard or seen in Jordan, Syria, Lebanon and most of Egypt. He appealed to Sadat for negotiations between their two countries to break the Middle East political deadlock.

Referring to Sadat as "honorable president," Eban said Israel sought an end to the current "no war, no peace" situation in the Middle East—"if the meaning of a departure from that is in the direction of peace."

But, he said, Israel would maintain the current stalemate "at any price so long as the meaning of any change is in the direction of renewed adventurism and war."

"Some Arab leaders know well," Eban said, "that Israel is in no danger of abolition or destruction, and yet they still deceive their people and promise to turn night into day and day into night."

CENTRAL OFFICE DIAL SWITCHMAN ATTENDS SCHOOL

Mr. Ernest Harkrader, central dial office switchman in Jacksonville, completed a two week course training session at General Telephone's Training Center in Clinton, Illinois on May 4.

During the course Mr. Harkrader was trained in adjustment and maintenance of office switch and relay equipment. This course was part of the company's regularly scheduled training to keep its employees trained in modern methods and procedures to provide the best possible service to its customers.

Ernie and his family reside at 906 South Clay in Jacksonville.

In discussing killing defense, H. W. Kelsey points out that any time you create an option for declarer he is likely to go wrong. If you don't give him an option, he can't.

You are sitting East and cover dummy's queen of hearts with your king. It holds that trick and your eight-spot the next, but South wins the third heart lead; plays his nine of clubs and lets it ride.

If you win the trick with your queen and lead back a diamond it is obvious that South will be forced to take the diamond finesse right then and there. He needs every missing face card for his bid.

How can you persuade South not to take that diamond finesse? Easy! Just win that first club with the ace, not the queen. South will now count four spades, three clubs, one heart and one diamond as sure winners. He won't risk the diamond finesse which may let your partner in to cash two heart tricks. Can this play be expensive. Of course, it can. South may not have counted to nine; may take the finesse anyway and wind up with an overtrick.

Cheering broke out in the courtroom after the judge read his prepared decision. Ellsberg arose and hugged his wife Patricia and there were shrieks of happiness from the group of young legal aides who had assisted the defense nearly from the time of Ellsberg's indictment in 1971.

"As the record makes clear, I have attempted to require the government and allow the defendants to develop all information available on the issues discussed here," Byrne said.

But he said the government had moved too slowly and "there remained more ques-

Polly's Pointers

A Can In A Can Aids Trash Men

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY—Inside my 20-gallon galvanized garbage can I keep a smaller plastic garbage pail that has handles on it. The collector can easily pick this up and my metal can stays in nice shape as no liquids go through to rust it out. I live in the south so put insect powder between these two cans. I think the men who collect the garbage appreciate not having to lift or reach into a heavy metal can. Thanks for all the Pointers. —BERNICE

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—I have two problems. One is that a quantity of bath water softener I bought some time ago has become hard and packed together. Any suggestions for getting this back into granules? Also, while making candles I dropped a hot pad into the hot wax. I want to know a way to remove the wax from my hot pad without ruining it. —P.J.S.

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with those people who walk right into my house with muddy shoes when I have three throw rugs out front just for wiping their shoes on. After they get inside, some even rub the mud off on the rug I am trying to protect. This really irritates me.

I am a licensed babysitter and have enough to do taking care of the children without having to clean up all that mud.

I also resent those who drive oil-leaking cars in my driveway and leave puddles of oil and grease that I have to clean up or else have it tracked in the house. The house is close to the street so it is only a short walk to the front door. I am sure there are others like the who work hard and like a clean house, too.—E.B.

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is for May who wants to be able to reuse invisible zippers. I place such a zipper in a plastic bag with just the tab sticking out and then paint it the desired color. Either spray or brush paint work nicely. Nail polish can be used, if you have it in the needed color.

I want to thank you for publishing the Pointer about varnishing with old nylon hose. This works so well on small articles and the great thing is there is no brush to clean.—CAROL

THE DOCTOR SAYS Is Celiac Disease Lifelong Problem?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb—I read your article about celiac disease. Well, my little boy has it and he is on a gluten-free diet. He has had it for 11 months. He is 24 months old now.

Is there a sure cure for it or will he have to be on this type of diet for the rest of his life? Will my little boy suffer bleeding around his brain with this type of disease? You mentioned in an article that the patient should not have milk products or sugar. Now my doctors told me he could have them. If he is not supposed to have them, just what is left that he can have? At his age he needs milk to grow doesn't he? Should I ask my doctor for vitamins for him or just give him the ones on the market today? Trying to find the right food is a problem. Some of the products sold do not tell what the ingredients are. Trying to feed another child without this disease is a problem. The foods she wants, the little one wants also. What is a mother to do?

Dear Reader—There are various degrees of severity of celiac disease and differences in children and adults. In uncomplicated cases the main problem is the allergic-type reaction of the digestive tract to the gluten protein found in all cereals except corn and rice. By eliminating all cereal products except corn and rice from the diet, and any foods that are made with cereal products containing gluten, the problem can be controlled.

Food labeling is a problem. Hopefully that will improve with the changes being announced in food labeling. Flour, which contains gluten, is found in a variety of foods, including commercial ice cream, cold cuts, hot dogs and places you least expect to find cereal. Gluten is present in cream soups, gravy and anything which uses a white sauce or flour for a thickening agent.

In some inadequately treated cases the damage to the lining of the small intestine destroys the normal enzymes needed to split the milk sugar (lactose) and make it impossible to utilize milk. The same thing can happen to the enzymes formed by the intestine to split double sugars such as ordinary table sugar. These are complications of the primary problem and are not always present. With severe diarrhea and real problems it is wise to eliminate all of these foods until the problem subsides, then see what can be tolerated. In individuals who respond well to just eliminating gluten from the diet, there is no reason to eliminate milk or sugar. So your doctor is undoubtedly right in the case of your child. He probably doesn't have these complications. He is less likely to develop them because his problem has been diagnosed and he is under proper treatment.

Along with the destruction of the lining of the intestinal tract, there may be an over-all failure of absorption, particularly of fats, from the intestinal tract. This can cause failure in the absorption of the fat soluble vitamins—A, D, and K. These complications need not occur if the diet is properly managed to begin with, specifically eliminating all sources of gluten. Failure to absorb vitamin K from the intestinal tract leads to a defect in the blood clotting mechanism which can lead to hemorrhages. Let me stress again that this is a complication and is not likely to occur in a patient under proper dietary management.

Snapper will cut your lawn, vacuum grass, leaves, and light litter at the same time.

With the Snapper grass catcher attachment, you can actually vacuum clean you lawn as you mow. No more hours of tedious raking.

The Snapper grass catcher holds six full bushels. And it empties in seconds.

But there's more to this great Snapper option than just how good it is. Another important thing is where it is: mounted on the back, instead of sticking out on the side like most mowers. With the Snapper grass catcher behind you, you have maximum maneuverability and the easiest handling possible.

'Feline Prone' Troublesome Ailment

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — One of the more troublesome ailments of mankind is an illness called "feline prone."

Anyone who has this sickness sympathizes with those women, often elderly, who make the news pages because they are found to have 20 or more cats in their house in violation of some city ordinance.

To be "feline prone" is to be loved by cats.

Thus a householder who likes these animals is in danger of having more around than he really wants. Take some recent neighborhood examples.

In one instance, a family down the block had an affectionate female alley version of the cat family. Then the family obtained a Siamese kitten. This put Alley's nose out of joint, and the next morning we nearly tripped over her as we went to get the morning paper.

Alley stayed on the front stoop for about three days, meowing piteously and growing visibly thinner, a trick cats have when they want sympathy. At last some kind soul in the household gave her a snack.

Now she considers herself our cat, a constant companion on our doorstep except in bad weather when she finds her way into the garage.

We acquired another cat some years ago which we will call Rusty. He grew thinner by the minute. Still, we didn't want to feed him and be accused of stealing the neighbor's animal.

But it finally became such a pitiful situation that occasionally a piece of scrap would fall accidentally out the door. And in no time at all, Rusty considered himself our cat.

It all started with a ceremony. The neighbor decided Rusty had fleas and invited all the neighborhood over for a flea-bating party.

He had bought a tube of flea powder that emits a puff of medication when you squeeze it.

The neighbor took Rusty in his left arm and the squeeze tube in his right hand and started to apply the first puff.

Rusty at that moment turned his head to see what was going on and got the first puff right in his mouth.

It was pure panic. Rusty tried to get away and clung in his claws for traction. The neighbor tried to hold him and only got slashed some more.

Rusty made one great jump to a porch pillar, then to the roof and across it in a great circle, leaped to the ground and jumped an eight-foot fence. It was the last time the neighbor ever saw Rusty.

Went over the next afternoon to see how the neighbor was recovering and was met by his wife.

"He's sleeping right now," she said.

"Had to feed him a tranquilizer and put him to bed about 4 o'clock this morning."

"He was up all night, going up and down the alleys, calling, 'Kitty, kitty, kitty.'"

"The police picked him up twice."

"If somebody doesn't find that cat, he's going to have to take a round of rabies shots."

So Rusty showed up at our house, but the only signs of madness came at feeding times. Turned out he went wild when the menu was sardines. Hal Boyle is ill.

The original plan for the U.S. Capitol was drawn by Dr. William Thornton, a close friend of George Washington.

Savage, Donahue Pole Favorites

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Sweden's Savage, a blond adonis, and 1972 winner Mark Donahue loomed as solid favorites for the pole position Saturday in the first round of qualifying for the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

At least 40 drivers are expected to line up on the grid at 11 a.m. EST for runs under the timing clocks. It will be their first shot at an early berth in a 33-car lineup that will race for more than $1 million in prize money May 28.

The front-row pole position, worth close to $3,000 in cash and that much more in merchandise, normally goes to the fastest driver on the first day of trials.

But most serious candidates for the up-front positions drew numbers Friday guaranteeing them a shot at the lineup in Saturday's first session. Thus, race officials must work through this list, even if some contenders have to be carried over until Sunday.

The weather forecast was for cloudy skies much of the day but with only a slight chance of rain. Temperatures were expected to be in the 60s, and speedway officials made plans for a turnout well in excess of 200,000.

Savage, driving an Eagle produced in Dan Gurney's shops but supervised by the famed George Bignotti who has five Indy winners to his credit, whipped out a lap at 197.802 m.p.h. last Saturday.

That was the top pre-qualifying speed through Friday.

Donahue, a former road racing champion who won the 56th running of the world's richest race at a record 162.962 last year, was well down on the list of speedsters until he began to crank up his Roger Penske McLaren Friday with 2.5-mile laps in excess of 193 m.p.h.

Knicks Secret: Play Together

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Walt Frazier surveyed the convincing upset victory of the New York Knicks for the National Basketball Association title and observed, "We all play together. Nobody on this team plays for himself."

It was four games to one for the Knicks over the defending champion Los Angeles Lakers as the New Yorkers won 102-93 before a capacity 17,505 on the Lakers' home Forum floor Thursday night.

A year ago it was different. The Lakers won 4-1 but Willis Reed wasn't in the lineup. He had been instrumental in winning the title for New York in 1970 but didn't even play in the '72 title set because of knee problems.

This time he was instrumental again, playing his best basketball of the season, hitting from outside and grabbing off rebounds.

He scored 18 points and hauled down 12 rebounds in the finale.

Eight of his points came in the third quarter when the Knicks surged for 32 and a 71-59 advantage that proved insurmountable even though the Lakers closed to within four points late in the fourth period.

"There is a lot of satisfaction in winning this year," commented the veteran Dave DeBusschere who scored 3 points in Tuesday night's victory but only two on Thursday before suffering a sprained ankle in the fourth quarter.

"It took us awhile to get the team playing together. We haven't played with Reed for two years and it was almost like having a rookie join us."

True, Los Angeles operated without a 100 per cent Jerry West, who suffered strained hamstring muscles, and there was no doubt his loss of efficiency hurt the defending champions.

Jerry was asked after the final games about reports he might call it quits in pro basketball to become a television commentator.

"I have had no offers to work as a color commentator on television," he replied. "Right now I'll just reflect on the season. There is plenty of time to think about it now that it is over."

Still West took sharp issue with a radio commentator who speculated that the Lakers might be too old overall and changes could be in store during the spring and summer.

"The Knicks beat us by 16 or 17 points in a playoff series and they say we are too old," commented West, 34. "I think that is the reaction of everybody. Fans are a little fickle. I think maybe the players want to win more than the fans want us to."

Palmer Blanks New York 3-0 On Three-Hitter

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Palmer pitched a three-hitter and Ellie Hendricks backed him with a two-run homer, pacing the Baltimore Orioles to a 3-0 victory over the New York Yankees Friday night.

Palmer, 3-2, struck out three Yankees without issuing a walk. He allowed only singles by Ron Blomberg in the second inning and Gene Michael in the sixth and ninth.

Palmer got the only runs he needed in the second as Brooks Robinson walked and, with one out, Hendricks hit his first homer of the American League season into the right field seats off Steve Kline, 2-4.

Robinson singled in the fifth inning to drive in the Orioles' third run. It followed a walk to Boog Powell and Blomberg's fielding error at first base on Rich Coggins' grounder.

WU SIGNS SULLIVAN

MACOMB — "With the addition of Dan Sullivan, we feel we have two of the three best players in southern Illinois," commented Western Illinois' head basketball coach Walt Moore after the Murphysboro All-Stars signed a letter-of-intent to attend WIU next fall.

The 6-4, 180 pound Sullivan becomes the second southern Illinois player to choose Western. Earlier, Mt. Vernon's 6-6 standout Ed Sanders announced his intentions for Western.

The lanky Murphysboro star led his club to a 26-3 record last summer and was named the team's most valuable player.

Gonzalez, Jacks Move To Sectional

QUINCY — With Mike Gonzalez taking individual honors, Jacksonville nabbed third place in the Quincy District, the first step in the IHSA state golf tournament Friday afternoon.

Quincy Catholic Boys won the meet, followed by Quincy High and JHS, with the top three teams and top five individuals advancing to the Galesburg Sectional, Saturday, May 19.

Gonzalez fired an even par 71 at the Westview Golf course, to nip runner-up Bill Eversman of Catholic Boys with a 72. Rounding out the top five individuals were, Roger Meyer and Rick Sellers of Quincy with 73's and Pittsfield's Steve Smith with a 74.

Missing advancing in the category were area schools, Pittsfield and Beardstown. Pittsfield finished fourth, trailing the third place Crimson by 29 strokes, and Beardstown ended up fifth.

Catholic Boys won the meet by just one stroke over Quincy High 305-305. JHS tallied a 316, followed by the Saukees' 335, Beardstown's 338, Hamilton with 348, Macomb with a 349, Bushnell with a 360, Carthage with a 361, Brown County carded a 363, good for tenth place, Macomb Western finished with a 365, Sciota Northwestern with a 366, Nauvo Colusa with a 370, Rushville tied with Southeastern for 14th with a 371, La Harpe had a 374, Camp Point finished last with a 393.

JHS golfers advancing to the Sectional along with Gonzalez will be Tom Murphy and David Coyle, who tied for eighth with 79's, Kim Marshall who finished with an 89, and Mark Lynn, who carded a 91.

Pittsfield, Beardstown Split Pair

BEARDSTOWN — Pittsfield traveled to Beardstown, Friday afternoon and split a double header by identical scores of 7-3. With the split both team stand at 9-9 on the season.

Pittsfield pounded out ten hits in the opener to win it with Don Apps going the distance. Apps fanned five and scattered four hits for the Saukees. He had plenty of help with Robbie Capps and Eric Gerard going three for four and Don Bigley going two for four with the bat.

In the second game Doug Clark and Ron Kuhlman set the Saukees down on two hits, and the Tigers exploded for five runs in the fourth inning to take the win.

In that game Robin Lewis and Sam Seward went two for two with Lewis getting three RBIs for Beardstown.

Thursday night Beardstown split a twinbill with Pleasant Plains at Beardstown. The Tigers won the first game, 2-1, with Plains coming back to take the nightcap 8-7.

Hundley's Homer Wins For Cubs, 4-3

CHICAGO (AP)—Randy Hundley broke a 3-3 tie with a two-out home run in the sixth inning Friday, powering the National League East-leading Chicago Cubs to a 4-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Hundley also doubled home a run in the Cubs' three-run second inning against 19-year-old starter Larry Christenson.

Philadelphia tied the game with three runs in the sixth, two of them coming on a homer by Greg Luzinski off Bob Locker, who had relieved starter Milt Pappas.

Locker, 3-1, got the victory. Ken Brett, 0-1, was the loser. Milt Pappas' 34th birthday was spoiled by the Phils' three-run sixth inning. The veterans righthander left after Cesar Tovar's leadoff double and Willy Montanez' one-out singles complaining of a sore elbow.

Glenn Beckert's run-producing single in the second which chased Christenson and brought in Brett marked the 20th straight game in which the Cubs' second baseman hit safely, currently tops for the major league season.

The Cubs' three-run second inning included three doubles by Ron Santo, Hundley and Don Kessinger and Beckert's single.

Locker was tough after yielding Luzinski's two-run homer on a second pitch in the sixth. He then held the Phils hitless

500,000 Fans Greet Stanley Cup Champs

MONTREAL (AP)—More than 500,000 Montreal fans lined city streets Friday and welcomed the victorious Montreal Canadiens home from Chicago after the team had won its 18th National Hockey League Stanley Cup championship.

Police officers, estimating the crowd at more than 500,000 said it was the biggest turnout for a parade they had ever seen.

The players, each in a convertible with captain Henri Richard leading the procession, were preceded by a huge flatbed truck carrying the Stanley Cup and a firemen's band.

Actually, the Montreal celebrations began for the players with their arrival at Montreal International Airport early Friday morning.

More than 2,000 singing and chanting fans were on hand to greet the Canadiens when they descended from the plane which had brought them home from their 6-4, cup-clinching win over Chicago Black Hawks.

Chuck Lefley, the Canadiens' young left winger, appeared almost shell-shocked after Friday afternoon's four-hour ordeal of hand shaking and autograph signing.

"They damn near tore my arm off," he said, showing a right arm which was scarred with scratches and ink marks.

"I was in the last parade two years ago and it was never anything like this."

Ken Dryden, the Montreal goalie known for his reserve, took the parade in stride.

"I almost got yanked out of my car about 1,000 times and I feel that I must have signed four straight miles of paper."

"It's fun though, everybody here is having a good time and you can't blame them for that."

The Montreal goalie, however, is looking forward to his summer vacation.

"Yeah, I'd like to get away from it all—with Hockey Canada and everything else, it's been a good 10 months on skates."

Mayberry Lifts Kansas City By Minnesota, 6-2

KANSAS CITY (AP)—John Mayberry hit a two-run homer, a triple and a single to drive in three runs, leading the Kansas City Royals to a 6-2 American League victory over the Minnesota Twins on Friday night.

Mayberry's ninth home run of the season came in the fifth inning, scoring Amos Otis ahead of him. His single sent Otis home from second base in the first to give the Royals a 1-0 lead.

Mayberry tripled to touch of a three-run uprising in the fourth: Ed Kirkpatrick, extending his hitting streak to 17 consecutive games, drove in Mayberry with a double. Lou Piniella drove in Kirkpatrick with a sacrifice fly. Rojas stole second and rode home on Paul Schaal's single.

The Royals backed Bruce Dal Canton, 2-1, with four double plays.

Singles by Rod Carew, Bob Darwin and Danny Thompson, coupled with shortstop Bobby Floy's error, produced two unearned runs for the Twins in the sixth.

WESLEYAN GETS SIKMA BLOOMINGTON — Illinois Wesleyan University became the first Illinois school to land 1973 Illinois all-state basketball players Thursday when 6-foot-9-inch Jack Sikma of St. Ann announced that he will enroll at Wesleyan.

Quincy's Bob Spear had previously announced for Wesleyan.

Sikma was named to the Chicago Daily News and Rockford Register-Star Class A all-state teams and to the Champaign News-Gazette all-state squad that doesn't differentiate between the classifications.

Wesleyan, which doesn't have athletic scholarships, won out in a recruiting battle against major universities. Sikma said that the other schools he visited were the University of Illinois, Purdue, Indiana State and Kansas State.

Cards Romp 12-0

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis unleashed a 15-hit assault against Mike Torrez and four Montreal relievers while Alan Foster twirled a four-hitter to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 12-0 National League romp over the Expos Friday night.

The Cardinals, winning for only the seventh time in 28 games, drove former teammate Torrez, 3-4, to cover with the a four-run first-inning salvo and another run the next inning.

Foster, 1-3, recorded his first National League triumph in nearly three years.

Torrez helped the Cards by walking Lou Brock and Jose Cruz leading off the game and was touched for a scratch hit by Joe Torre that loaded the bases.

Ted Simmons slapped a two-run single, Bernie Carbo drew a walk and Ray Busse and Mike Tyson delivered singles to cap the early spree.

Carbo singled home the fifth Cardinal run and hit a sacrifice fly during a two-run fifth inning. St. Louis' eighth run

ALL YOU GOT TO DO IS ASK Murray Olderman

The Tipoff:

Dave Cowens, the most valuable player in the National Basketball Association, actually voted for Nate Thurmond of the Warriors as the guy who meant most for his team.

Q—If boxing bores Muhammad Ali, as I've read, what does interest him, besides Elijah the Prophet?—Jeremy Faulkner, Cincinnati, O.

A. Gadgets. Expensive ones. He has a car and phone freak. He has, among other vehicles, two Rolls Royces, a Lamborghini, and his pet, a $45,000 custom Bluebird bus. His phone bill, he says, sometimes runs to $700 a month. He has a battery hip pocket phone and an attaché case phone, anything that Don Ameche's successors have ever produced for Alexander Graham Bell. He has also invested $130,000 into his log camp in the Poconos. That's why, broken jaw and all, he can't afford to be bored.

Q—How much does pro football depend on television money?—Jack Pick, Denver, Colo.

A—The question should be, how much does television depend on pro football. Figures are getting staggering. Right now CBS pays $20 million, NBC $15 million and ABC $8.6 million to get in on the act. Add $1.5 million each for two Conference Playoffs and the Pro Bowl, plus $2.75 million for the Super Bowl, and that comes to a round figure of $50 million. But CBS makes $5 million, NBC makes $3 million and ABC makes a whopping $7 million—which means a 30 per cent return on investment. Negotiations are already under way for new contracts (the old one runs out after this year), and the big concentration is on the lucrative Monday night package, sure to get a big boost. (ABC grosses $20 million in sponsor sales at $80,000 a minute.)

Q—I want to take up skiing, but I've heard it's dangerous—and expensive, too. Since I'm 41, is it really advisable?—Tom Belton, Rockford, Ill.

A—The biggest threat, at your age, may be apres-ski. Snug stretches can cause all kinds of flutters. Skiing, approached prudently, is no more dangerous than peeling a hard-boiled egg. Get good equipment, enroll in a good ski school and be in fair physical shape. Know your own limitations before you challenge the slopes. Yes, skiing is expensive (lift tickets alone run from $7 to $10 daily). What isn't? If you want to get a summer head start, go to Chile.

Q—How can I buy season tickets to the 49er games? I'm tired of being shut out year after year.—Pete Liebes, Redwood City, Calif.

A—Well, to start with, read the obituary lists in your daily newspaper and find out which season ticket holder didn't will his location to an heir. Actually, all you can do is write the club and ask to be put on a waiting list. Or else move to Buffalo, N.Y. where you can generally pick up a ticket for a December game.

Q—Is a time limit for shooting coming to college basketball?—Don Beerg, Snohomish, Wash.

A—Very likely. It was used in the Big Eight this year. John Wooden, the influential UCLA coach, is all for it. "I thought we'd have it," says John, "when I was a member of the rules committee in the middle 1960s. You could say why would I want to change, as well as we're doing. But I felt, long before we won a national championship, that the time limit would be great for basketball." It'll likely be 30 seconds, which is the international rule.

Q—Can I get anything out of going to a summer sports camp besides a sunburn?—Jimmy Gebb, Los Angeles.

A—Autographs, for one thing, if you decide on camps run by such people as Joe Namath, Rick Barry, et al. Make sure the stars aren't just figureheads, that they'll really show. I lean to the established camps, such as run by Bob Cousy in New Hampshire. At the least, the fresh air'll do you good. Parting Shot:

The biggest gripe of pro golfers on tour remains the length of time it takes to play a round. And the worst culprits are the young kids who grew up watching Jack Nicklaus stand over a putt.

Got a tough question about sports and the people who play them? All you got to do is ask Murray Olderman. Write him at the Jacksonville Journal Courier, Jacksonville, Ill. The most interesting questions will be answered in this column. Olderman regrets that he cannot write personal answers to all questions.

4 Teams Picked For Regional Baseball Field

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP) — Four college division baseball teams have so far been selected for the six-team double elimination NCAA Midwest Regional Baseball Tournament.

The tournament will be held at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, Ill., May 24-26.

The two additional teams will be selected following this weekend's games, according to Jack Rafeid, Mount Union athletic director and NCAA tournament director for the Midwest Region.

Teams already selected are: Southern Illinois 19-3; Eastern Illinois University at Charleston, 18-1; Indiana Central University at Indianapolis, 16-2; and Marietta College, Marietta, Ohio, 24-4.

Southern Illinois is the Midwest Regional defending champion and NCAA College Division national runner-up to Florida Southern University, Lakeland, Fla.

Southern Illinois and Eastern Illinois are both independents while Indiana Central is in the Indiana Collegiate conference champion. Marietta is currently leading the Ohio Athletic Conference southern division with an 8-1 record.

Of the four teams selected, all but Indiana Central have been selected in past years.

Staggers Says Drug Use In All Sports

WASHINGTON (AP) — A year-long probe shows drug use by athletes is widespread but public hearings by Congress might spur more experimentation by youngsters, Rep. Harley O. Staggers, said Friday.

Based on talks with major pro sports league commissioners, "I think self-regulation will be intensified and will be effective," he also said he would hold similar meetings soon with representatives of amateur sports groups.

He said he would "follow closely the efforts which will now be made by the sports organizations involved" and if any action by Congress appears necessary "it will be initiated without delay."

Staggers, a former college and high school football coach, said the probe by his investigating subcommittee staff has shown drug use by athletes "exists, in varying degrees in all sports and levels of competition with few exceptions."

"In some instances, the degree of improper drug use—primarily amphetamines (commonly referred to as uppers or pep pills) and anabolic steroids (used to increase weight and improve strength)—can only be described as alarming."

In a statement, Staggers said: "I am most reluctant to parade witnesses in a public hearing who will give testimony on widespread drug use in the athletic world. This may very well lead to greater drug experimentation by youngsters engaging in competitive sports."

"Our investigation confirmed the high degree to which aspiring young athletes emulate the actions, habits, and even superstitions of their sports heroes."

Staggers said he has discussed the problem "and our findings with the commissioners of the major professional sports leagues," including baseball's Bowie Kuhn; football's Pete Rozelle, and pro basketball's Walter Kennedy.

Based on "constructive responses and assurances I have received," he said, "I think self-regulation will be intensified and will be effective."

Crampton's 2-Stroke Edge Holds

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) —

Streaking Bruce Crampton shot a 69 to go with his opening 66 and maintained a two-stroke lead Friday after two rounds of the $150,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament.

"If this was a feature to my round, it was that I hit a lot of good recovery shots," said Crampton, who missed seven fairways, was in the sand four times, missed four greens and still escaped with but one bogey.

His 135 total, five-under-par on the 7,142-yard Colonial Country Club course, gave the 37-year-old Australian a solid lead in his quest for a fourth title on the American tour this season.

Only Tom Weiskopf could make a major challenge in the hot, muggy weather that sent temperatures soaring into the mid-90s.

Weiskopf fashioned a two-under-par 68 and was alone in second place at 137 midway through this race for a $30,000 first prize.

One stroke further back at 138 were defending Colonial champion Jerry Heard, Lou Graham and Lee Elder. Heard had his second consecutive 69, Graham blazed in at 66 and Elder shot 68.

Gene Littler, Hale Irwin and Ken Still, at 139, were the only others in the field able to better par after two rounds.

SEATTLE (AP) — Bill Russell, the defensive giant who changed the style of play in the National Basketball Associa-manager and coach of the

Seattle SuperSonics, the club announced.

The contract, reportedly for a

$125,000 a year salary, covers

five years, said Sam Schulman,

Sonics president, and Richard

D. Covey, Russell's attorney.

Russell, who in 13 years with the Boston Celtics made defense the basis for championships, had denied until Friday any interest in the Sonics' job.

It was not immediately known what changes would be made in the Sonics' organization. Morris "Bucky" Buchwalter, the Sonics temporary coach since the mid-season firing of Tom Nissalke, had been acting as general manager, too, following the announced resignation two weeks ago of Bob Houbregs.

Russell, a 6-foot-9 All-Americans from the University of San Francisco, was drafted by the then St. Louis Hawks in 1956.

He was traded to Boston before he ever donned a uniform and proceeded to lead the Celtics to seven NBA titles as a player.

He was a player-coach the last three years with the Celtics and twice took them to the

NBA championship. His coaching record was 162-83 in regular season play and 28-18 in the playoffs. He was named the league's most valuable player five times.

For the past two seasons,

Russell had been commentator

New York made it 4-2 in the

Dean Hill, an employee of the City Power Department, is shown stacking the utility poles on the bank near the lake. At a later date the poles will be towed down the lake and put into position at the openings of the coves.

A New Chrysler Bass Boat

A Bass Fishermans Dream Come True

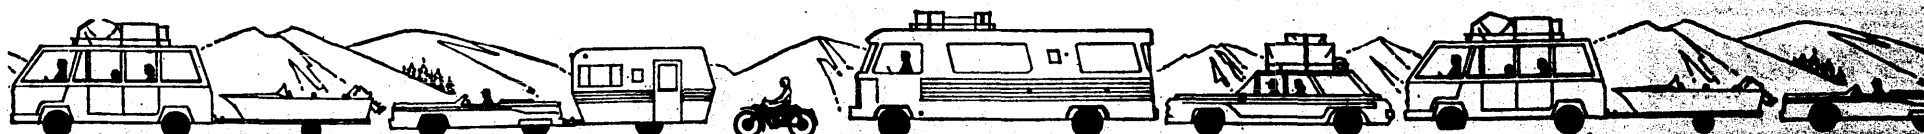

By VIC WATIA
REND LAKE, Ill. (UPI) — It wasn't that the lake was too much for the boat. On the contrary, my new Chrysler 17-foot Pro Bass Runner was built for just these conditions — a strong south wind that had whipped the lake like an egg beater. I was just too gentle with the boat. In defense, let me say that for 20 years, ever since selling worms for pennies as a kid and guiding "city slickers" to top fishing holes for nothing, I had waited for this boat. And, now I had finally signed my life away to get it. So, I had edged it out in the eagerness of a maiden voyage. In my caution, I failed to meet the fury of the lake with the appropriate power and was given a good dousing with spray. Enter one Stanley Brown. "I would'a warned you, but then you probably wouldn't have listened to me anyways," he said, smiling. "No, I wouldn't," I said. "It's a beautiful boat," he said, showing a love I thought was mine alone. "Yep, I almost bought one like it," he said as I handed him the bow anchor to place on shore. I lowered the one in the back to keep the boat from drifting into shore with the wind.

"You're like I was," he said. "I couldn't wait to try mine when I first got her," he added, jerking his thumb in the direction of his bass boat, which was still on its trailer. Stanley fishes this lake almost every day. The third shift he works at a nearby mine allows him the time to do so. With a lure he has especially designed for these waters, he's already boated more than 300 bass here this season. Perhaps he sensed I was too cautious with my new rig. So, after I had changed into dry clothing, he became the teachers. "Let's take her right back out there," he suggested. "You've got to find the right r.p.m. for her to climb over this stuff. Let's try 2,500 r.p.m. That was the speed I had been going at when the waves (Turn To Page Two)

Upland Game

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Conservation Advisory Board has approved deer season dates and the opening dates for upland game for the 1973 hunting season.

Anthony T. Dean, director of the Department of Conservation, announced that the shotgun season for deer will be Nov. 16, 17 and 18 and Dec. 7, 8 and 9. The bow and arrow season for deer will be Oct. 1 through Nov. 11, Nov. 18 through Dec. 2 and Dec. 10 through Dec. 31 in counties open to shotgun hunting. All other counties will be open to archery from Oct. 1 through Dec. 31. Counties which will be open for shotgun hunting will be announced later.

Director Dean also announced that the upland game season will begin at sunrise Nov. 18. Shooting hours will be set forth in the Illinois Standard Shooting Timetable. Closing dates and bag limits for the season will be determined after biologists have made summer census counts of the various species.

"Our primary concern is to let hunters know when the seasons begin as soon as possible," Director Dean said. "Many sportsmen plan their vacations around these dates and we want to let them know these times as early in the year as possible."

It is the intention of the Department to hold the deer season on the third weekend of November and the second weekend of December each year, and to open the upland game season on the second Saturday of each November.

danced me, and I told him so. Then take her to 3,200 r.p.m.," he said. "My best rides best in this rough stuff at 2,500 but every boat is different."

I pushed the 85 horses until the tach read 3,200. The boat planed off and rode over the waves like they were marshmallows.

"See!" he said. "Now let's try it a little higher, say 4,000."

I did, and the waves echoed against the boat like someone throwing stones. We tried the boat at various speeds, and adjusted the motor up and down with the power trim.

"That's it," he said. "It seems 3,200 r.p.m. with about 1/2 trim is ideal for this rough water. But open her up for a minute. I want to show you this boat will take it."

It did, skipping across the water like a flat stone tossed from shore.

"You don't want to ride her open in this kind of stuff for long though," Stanley said later. "It's hard on a boat. You want to find that ideal speed where she's up on top of it all and not taking a beating."

Then we talked of this lake and its potential for the Illinois bass fishermen. He didn't have to convince me "this is the best bass lake in the state."

Facilities right now are limited on the lake, but construction is going on in several spots along the banks and it won't be long before fishermen will be flocking here.

I was sorry when the wind didn't die down that day, as I would have liked nothing better than to complete the breaking-in period of my new boat with a fishing partner like Stanley Brown.

I never bothered to ask where he was from, but it doesn't matter. It seems every Illinois lake has its Stanley Browns.

New Record

SPRINGFIELD — Harold Harris, Chicago, became the new state record holder for brown trout when he entered a 17-pound catch in the Illinois Department of Conservation's record fish contest.

Harris took the fish from Lake Michigan on a power line, using minnow bait. The fish was 32 inches long and had a girth of 21 1/2 inches.

The fish surpassed the old record of 13 pounds, five ounces, set by Walter Blaszczak, Chicago, in 1971.

Outdoors with Jim

By JIM RALL

JOHN DAWSON, president of the Save the Lake Committee, has called a work day for tomorrow, Saturday, May 12. Volunteers will help collect rock that will be used to rip rap the eroding shorelines at Lake Jacksonville. More volunteers are needed, and those wishing to help should meet at the City Garage on West Oak by 8:30 A.M. Saturday.

The Save the Lake Fund received a very nice donation from the Jacksonville Division 88, National Fraternal Society of the Deaf. President Alden Rayn and all concerned deserve a big thank you.

Jim Walker, owner and operator of Anglers Friend Bait and Tackle, has announced the April fish contest winners. Verna Fernandes had the largest bass weighing 5 lbs. 4 oz.; Little Howard Anders came in with the largest crappie weighing 1½ lbs. Bob Gill caught the largest channel catfish, 1 lb. 3 oz. It seems that everyone forgot about the bluegills and carp, as no entries were received for these species of fish.

Mac's Sporting Goods in Roodhouse announced that Jeff Little won their bluegill fishing contest. Jeff caught the 9½" winning bluegill at the Roodhouse Community Park Lake.

The Coachmen Travel Trailers Association held its annual state meeting last weekend at Roegge Lake, 6½ miles northwest of Jacksonville. Coachmen travel trailers from six communities attended this meeting.

Others attended from Quincy, Dectur, Champaign, Urbana, and Centralia.

Dale Tripp and his lovely wife Jean recently purchased the Big Indian Camp from Dick Cruzan. Dale and Jean are changing the name of the camp to Crazy Horse-Big Indian Camp. Their future plans for Big Indian Camp will be announced at a later date.

B.A.S.S. (Bass Anglers Sportsman Society) has announced that Miller Brewing Company will sponsor this year's B.A.S.S. Classic. The classic is an annual three-day event which takes place in October at a mystery lake in an undisclosed fishing area. Twenty-four of the nation's top bass fishermen will compete for the $10,000 grand prize and the Miller BASS Master's Cup.

Did you hear the fish story about Armond Beggett of Live Oak, California. Armond landed a record 420-lb. Sturgeon on 25-pound test line. He was using sardines as bait, and thought the sturgeon was a log at first. The fish and game department described it as a rod and reel record.

Business — Market Wrapup

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices plummeted steeply Friday for the third straight session, and analysts attributed the plunge to the boost in the Federal Reserve discount rate and Watergate.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed down 11.36 at 927.98, bringing its total loss since Wednesday to nearly 29 points.

Losers swamped gainers on the New York Stock Exchange by 1,070 to 336, among the 1,763 issues changing hands. Volume continued scanty, totaling only 12.98 million shares.

The broad-based NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks closed 72 at 57.43.

Robert Stovall of Reynolds Securities said "Wall Street was shocked" by the Fed's decision to hike the discount rate by 1/4 of a percentage point to 6 per cent, the highest level since the 1969-70 credit crunch.

Other analysts said fresh Watergate allegations, involving a widening number of Nixon administration officials, had sidelined buyers.

Stovall called the Watergate charges "debilitating" and said they had raised doubts about the administration's ability to cope with pressing economic questions.

Mercurial H&R Block, which fell 1 1/2 to 8 1/2 on volume of 225, 100, topped the active issues on the Big Board. Fred James & Co., down 1 1/2 to 10 1/2, was in the No. 2 spot after a 213,300 share block of the insurance company went at 10.

Two volatile stocks which often lead big market swings dropped sharply. Fairchild Camera fell 4 1/2 to 48 1/2, and Polaroid was down 4 1/2 to 130.

On the American Stock Exchange, declines held more than a 2-to-1 lead over advances, and the price-change index closed down .05 at 23.53.

In over-the-counter trading, the NASDAQ composite index finished down 1.22 at 109.10.

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — In a speech called "Let's Keep Our Sense of Humor," Stewart Cort, chairman of Bethlehem Steel Corp., almost lost his sense of humor.

It was forgivable, because the subject was profits, which for steel companies is not only the most sought after ideal but also the most mysteriously elusive one.

In the speech, written for delivery to a group of Williamsport, Pa., manufacturers this week, Cort described the results of an invitation to three classes of high school juniors and seniors to ask questions on profits.

"Now, mind you, these are students who had already taken courses in economics, and most of them are in advanced classes at that," Cort said.

"Out of 76 questions they turned in to us, more than 50 showed a complete misunderstanding about the basic nature of profits. For example, a typical question was, 'What is the percentage of profits that goes to labor?'"

"Asking a question like that after passing courses in economics is just about the same as seeing the Grand Canyon as nothing more than a place where you can expectorate a mile," he said.

"The biggest slice of every dollar of revenue—not of 'profits,' revenue—is 46.1 cents for employment costs. That's right off the top, before profits."

"After we divided up all the other shares we had a very thin slice left for profits, just 4.3 cents, and you'll never get fat on a slice like that."

The shareholders won't, of course, but that doesn't necessarily apply to Cort, whose 1972 salary of $291,000, up more than $40,000 from 1971, is certainly adequate for the basic necessities.

Another critic wrote to a newspaper, Cort said, claiming, "It is obvious that Bethlehem Steel does not pay its fair share." Calling it foolishness, Cort related that taxes took 4.1 cents of every Bethlehem revenue dollar last year.

This, he said, is shearing very close to the skin, to a company's ability to pay, even though critics point out that the steel industry has been notoriously slow in paying its share of cleaning the air and water.

Cort is unquestionably correct in suggesting there is a great lack of understanding about profits and the role of business and the contributions made to society by industry.

His recommendation that people "watch out for the flagrant distortions of fact that are encouraging people to ask for unnecessary laws and bureaucratic nipping" appears to be merited.

But when you look over the list of those named as being involved on both sides of the misunderstanding, some of them innocently enough, some questions come to mind.

That list includes students, educators, government, newspapers—but not business. Doesn't business have a role other than that of critic in providing education and disseminating information?

And regarding profits, which are, as Cort related, reduced by taxes and workers' undesired profit management responsibility? Is it at all to blame?

Federal Government Declares War On Lead

By ROZ LISTON
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the wake of public outrage over lead poisoning, the Federal government has declared war on lead by requiring the paint industry to purge the metal from its products.

A recent Federal ruling all but abolished lead from non-industrial paint by lowering its acceptable level to .5 per cent. The statute, which became effective Jan. 1, 1973, also reduced the content of other dangerous metals used in paint.

The paint industry, target of the so-called paint crusade launched two years ago after New York City hospitals linked the high incidence of lead poisoning in slum children to their habit of eating chips from window sills and walls, was quick to join the ranks of the anti-lead cause.

By the time the new statute was enacted, most paint manufacturers had substituted other non-toxic base metals for lead.

Application Restricted
The immediate impact of the government action on the paint industry already is being felt by the consumer. The removal of lead has resulted in higher paint prices, loss of durability, and a somewhat limited range of deep colors, a spokesman for the New York City Housing Authority said.

Industrial coatings still contain lead and zinc oxides, but their application is restricted to non-congested areas.

The implication of the new statute for the paint industry suggests coating manufacturers may soon spend as much time in the laboratory as they do on the production line. Metal detection has become the prime concern of the industry. With metal trace levels at an all-time low, a dirty tank can contaminate a 3,000 gallon batch of paint and result in its being scrapped at a loss of thousands of dollars to the manufacturer.

Richard Scott, a research director at Sherwin-Williams, the nation's largest paint manufacturer, said "In the past we used to barter with suppliers on price and quality." Now, according to Scott, the raw materials in paint are the major bargaining point.

Analyze Metal Content
To police itself and avoid further Federal surveillance, Sherwin-Williams and other paint manufacturers use an atomic absorption spectrophotometer to analyze the metal content of raw materials and finished products.

Fifteen municipal hospitals managed by the New York Health and Hospitals Corp. hope to screen between 100,000 and 300,000 children in the one-to-five age bracket this year alone by using the instrument.

It enables the hospitals to bypass the slow and painful method of drawing blood from a child's arm and to obtain significant results from less than a drop of blood.

Despite the paint industry's willingness to compromise the quality of its products by removing lead, early detection and medical treatment is the only immediate answer to lead poisoning. Although clay, pencils and even asphalt highways have contributed to the lead poisoning problem, the vast majority of victims have eaten paint applied at least 30 years ago when lead additives were dangerously high. Until the inner cities have new and better housing, lead poisoning will continue to be the paint man's burden.

SOYBEAN FUTURES

DECLINE LIMIT

CHICAGO (AP)—Soybean futures prices dropped the limit of 20 cents a bushel on all options on the Chicago Board of Trade today as longs rushed to take profits on a week of spectacular increases.

Corn and oats prices also were lower, while wheat was mixed.

The May soybean option, on which price fluctuation limits have been removed, dropped as much as 49 cents. Prices during the week's trade have risen as high as $9.75 on the May.

Soybean meal and soybean oil followed the downward trend with meal losing $5 to $10 a ton and oil dropping around 30 points.

Wheat prices were unsteady as traders registered mixed reactions to a government report Thursday that this year's winter wheat crop would be 8 per cent higher than last year.

The report also predicted a high demand for the crop, however, and the 8 per cent increase was lower than expected.

Corn prices continued to drop as sunny skies made it seem likely that fields would dry and farmers could begin to plant soon.

Ice-d broilers sold as much as 75 points lower in early trade. After about an hour, wheat was 1 1/2 lower to 1 3/4 higher, May 2.38; corn was 2 to 4 1/2 lower, May 1.78; oats were 3 1/2 to 2 1/2 lower, July 91 1/2 cents and soybeans were 20 to 41 lower, May 8.63.

Harlington Wood Nominated For Federal Bench

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon Friday named Harlington Wood Jr., assistant attorney general in charge of the civil division of the Justice Department, to be a U.S. District Court judge for the Southern District of Illinois.

If Wood is confirmed by the Senate for the judiciary post his departure from the Justice Department will produce another high level vacancy in the administration. A number of other top jobs remain open, some of them as a direct or indirect result of the Watergate scandal.

Wood, 53, is a legal resident of Springfield, Ill. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois and the University of Illinois Law School.

Before joining the administration in 1969, Wood served as a member of the Illinois Crime Investigation Commission, and before that as U.S. attorney for the Southern District of Illinois.

FARM GROUPS JOIN FORCES TO FIGHT RISING FOOD PRICES
BOSTON (AP) — The National Consumers Congress and the National Farmers Organization are joining forces to fight rising food prices, a congress spokesman says.

Diane Fulman of Concord said the organization will present a national platform for adoption at the congress' meeting in Chicago Saturday.

She said the two organizations will lobby for legislation and changes in administration policy concerning cost and availability of food.

"We especially want to see federal action against powerful corporations and all sectors of the food chain from production to distribution which, together with federal policy of food scarcity, are largely responsible for the food price spiral," she said.

Knicks' 102-93 Win Nets Playoff Title

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The New York Knicks combined their sticky defense with an offense paced by Earl Monroe and Bill Bradley to whip the defending champion Los Angeles Lakers 102-93 Thursday night and capture the National Basketball Association playoff finals 4-1.

Monroe scored 23 points and Bradley 20 as the Knicks were victorious for the fourth straight game after losing the opener to the Lakers.

New York surged in the third period with 32 points to 18 for the Lakers after the Knicks trailed 41-39 at halftime before a sellout crowd of 17,505 at the Forum.

Walt Frazier accounted for 10 points, Willis Reed and Bradley had eight apiece in the third-period eruption which sent the Knicks well ahead en route to their second NBA title in four years.

They had beaten the Lakers in the 1970 NBA finals but lost to them in the title set a year ago.

Neither team could generate much offense in the opening two quarters when injury-hampered Jerry West of the Lakers was held scoreless as was Dave DeBusschere, the New York hero of Tuesday night's game, in which he scored 33 points.

DeBusschere scored but one field goal before suffering a sprained ankle early in the fourth period.

West wound up with a dozen points while Gail Goodrich led the Lakers with 28-10 of them in the final quarter.

Frazier and Reed each scored 18 for the winners, and a national magazine awarded the latter an automobile as the most valuable player in the finals.

Reed captured similar honors in 1970 but has since been hampered by knee problems and wears a brace on one knee.

New York jumped to a 22-16 lead in the first quarter but could score only 16 in the second as the Lakers pulled ahead paced by a 10-point output by 7-foot-2 Wilt Chamberlain.

The big Laker center finished with 23 points, well above his average for the series.

However, in the first half, the Knicks hit only a 37 per cent average on the field while the Lakers hit 32 per cent.

New York found the range in the third quarter, hitting 14 of 21 shots for 67 per cent as Bradley, Reed and Frazier each connected four times from the field.

They boosted the New York margin to 14 points early in the fourth period and the Lakers were unable to overcome that disadvantage.

They did, however, cut the margin to four points at 86-82 with Goodrich collecting eight in a row for the losers.

Then Reed hit from the side and Monroe scored on a break-away, adding a free throw when fouled by West.

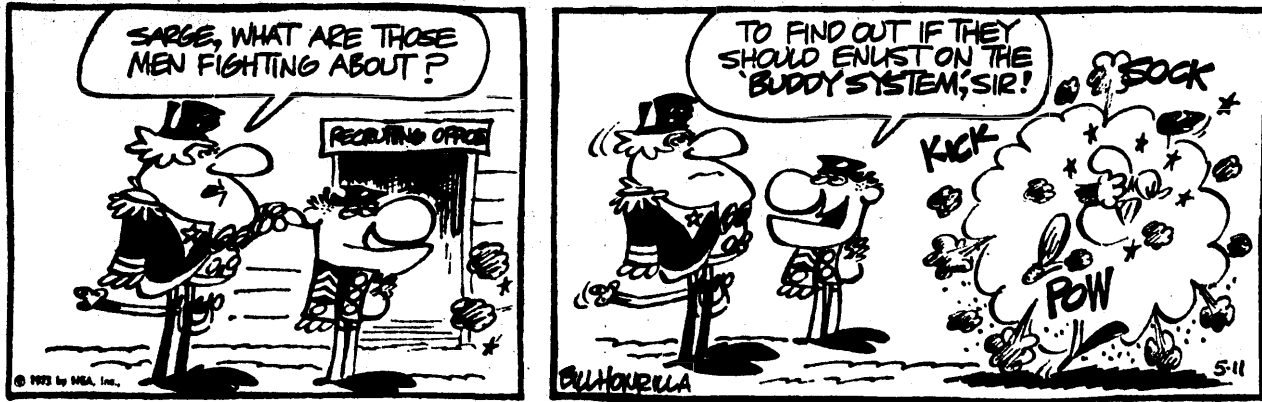

Reed then built the margin to 93-84 and put the Lakers out of contention.

Walker Supports Oakley Dam Project

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Daniel Walker pledged Thursday that the state will support the controversial Oakley Dam project which environmental groups in the Decatur area have been fighting for more than 10 years.

Walker told a news conference that the city would suffer a water shortage by 1985 without the project, which would include construction of two 50-foot dams and create a 14,000-acre lake.

In making the announcement, Walker also said the state will support the Middle Fork Reservoir project near Danville and will work with federal authorities in modifying the Lincoln Reservoir proposal for the Charleston area.

The Oakley project, which will be undertaken by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers if the federal government approves it, would cost $81 million. The state's share would be $18 million.

The city of Decatur would be expected to repay the entire $18 million to the state with interest as it uses water provided by the project.

Environmentalists say that creating man-made lakes has already been shown to have a disastrous effect on ecology in the area. They also fear that the Sangamon River would be backed up by the dams, possibly flooding Allerton Park, a national natural landmark located 25 miles east of Decatur.

"Allerton Park will be protected," Walker said. "It is a vital asset to the people of the area."

Walker met three weeks ago with Decatur labor and industrial leaders in his office and heard their support of the project.

Last week members of the University of Illinois track club ran 65 miles from Allerton Park to Walker's Springfield office with a petition listing 165,000 names opposing the project.

"Whichever way I go, there are a lot of people who will be unhappy with me," Walker said at that time.

Bruce Hannon, an active opponent of the project, said he and other opponents would "keep up the fight" against Oakley despite Walker's decision.

Walker said he will send John Guillou, the state's chief waterways engineer, to Washington for Congressional hearings on the project next week.

In addition to insuring that Allerton Park would not be flooded by the project, Walker said the state will attempt to work out with the federal government an assurance that the water quality in the lake would meet state and federal standards.

If approved by the federal government, the project would be started in 1974 with completion expected eight to nine years later.

He made the announcement before addressing the Decatur Chamber of Commerce.

Industry had argued the Oakley project would provide a much-needed additional source of water. Labor said the lake construction would provide more jobs over both the short and long runs.

Walker said he would include in his 1975 budget for the project which would then fall subject to legislative approval.

On the Middle Fork Reservoir project, Walker said the residents of Vermillion County have shown "the kind of local initiative needed" to merit state support by taxing themselves.

The county has raised $365,000 since 1966 through a property tax and $1.3 million through a bond issue.

Walker asked that the county conservation district submit an environmental impact statement to the state which would enable the state to ask for federal funding.

Walker did not estimate how much of the $8 million initial cost of the project the state would pick up.

"The Danville area is long overdue for a water source which will provide recreational facilities for the people in that area and will bring much-needed revenue from tourism and industry," he said.

The project would include a 42-foot dam creating a 3,400-acre lake.

Walker said the Charleston area needs can be satisfied without construction of the $6 million Lincoln Reservoir.

"A plan will be worked out to solve the water shortage and flooding problems without building a massive reservoir of the size proposed in the original Lincoln project," Walker said.

He added he has instructed the Division of Water Resources management to work with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to develop a federal-state program to solve the problems.

Dr. David Fogel Salary Clipped By Lawmakers

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Governor Daniel Walker's salary has been cut by lawmakers as a House committee voted to clip $10,000 from his salary.

The cut came as part of a Republican-sponsored amendment to the annual appropriation for the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, of which Fogel is executive director.

The House Appropriations Committee Wednesday adopted the amendment on a 14-13 vote, setting Fogel's salary at $10,000 below the $35,000 Gov. Daniel Walker has allotted him and itemizing other expenses in the commission's budget.

Commission Chairman Donald Page Moore protested that the amended bill encroached excessively on federal territory by specifying how federal money should be spent and said the measure could jeopardize the federal funds.

Moore said he was "deeply troubled and concerned" that the Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, which provides $30 million to $40 million a year to Illinois, would interpret the revised bill as reflecting a hostile attitude toward the commission and restrict federal funding for it.

$2 Million from State The bill would give the commission somewhat more than $2 million in state funds but also describes the expenditure of over $37 million from the federal criminal justice trust fund.

Moore protested the amended bill both for limiting the flexibility of the commission and for setting Fogel's salary at $35,000 a year. He said Fogel's salary, more than his predecessor's, was justified because he would be taking over duties and responsibilities that Moore previously handled as chairman.

Moore said his own salary was dropped from $35,000 to $30,000 when he moved from full-time to part-time status.

Fogel, who remained silent through most of the discussion, said that having the salaries of employees set by statute "plays havoc with any standards of personnel management."

Fogel has received rough treatment in the legislature since Walker brought him from Minnesota to head the Department of Corrections. The Senate ejected him from that job and Walker then named him his personal advisor on criminal justice and later made him executive director of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, which distributes money to local law enforcement agencies.

With several lawmakers expressing concern about the loss of federal money, most Democrats and some Republicans refused to vote on sending the amended bill to the House floor, giving it a 13-0 margin with nine members voting present and a few disappearing from the room.

Names 18 Members Walker named 18 new members to the commission Wednesday, including three police chiefs, three prosecuting attorneys and a county sheriff.

Chicago Police Chief James E. Conlisk Jr. and International Association of Police Chiefs President Don R. Derrning of Winnetka were among the new commissioners. The other police chief named was Joseph T. Dakin of Carbondale.

Prosecuting attorneys named to the commission were James Haddad of Cook County, David D. De Doncker of Rock Island County and Richard J. Doyle of Vermillion County.

Walker also named Sheriff Russell L. Oxford of Williamson County and university officials, attorneys, a labor leader, a circuit court judge, a Chicago policeman and an executive director of the Chicago Urban League.

"The group will determine how money should be spent to make our society safer," Walker said. "They know my philosophy: Federal funds should go primarily to the front line of law enforcement — the policeman who has to deal first-hand with crime."

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The National Weather Service said Thursday it was anticipating a downward trend in the levels of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers following the weekend and the fourth crest on the rivers since the spring flooding began last March.

"The rivers are reaching to local conditions right now," a spokesman for the weather service said, "but I think we'll begin to see a general downward trend after the 12th."

Rises and falls were recorded Thursday on both rivers without any clear pattern. The Mississippi fell .2 feet at Quincy, Ill., to 22.2 feet, 5.2 feet above flood stage, but was holding steady at Hannibal, Mo., only 20 miles south. Drops were recorded at points just north of St. Louis, but at St. Louis the river rose .3 feet to 7.8 feet above the 30-foot flood level.

Although the weather service has not predicted when the Mississippi or Missouri will finally fall below flood stage, the spokesman said it will be at least late in May "if no significant rainfall is added."

Despite predictions of little or no chance of rain for the next few days, the Army Corps of Engineers said it was keeping about one million sandbags on hand to meet any emergency.

"But we don't think we'll need them," a spokesman said. "No major work was under way Thursday on levees in either Missouri or Illinois."

"The ground has been drying out quickly," the spokesman said. "The wind helps a lot with evaporation, too."

The Missouri River is expected to crest at St. Charles at 31.5 feet Saturday, 6.5 feet above flood, and the Mississippi is to crest at 38.5 feet at St. Louis the same day.

High winds and locally heavy rain of an inch in some places, early Thursday had little or no effect on the flood situation, the weather service said.

With the outlook for Missouri and Illinois food victims brightening, the Small Business Administration advised residents to clean up their homes as quickly as possible, taking photographs and preparing an itemized list of damages to be used as evidence of losses.

The deadline for filing applications for disaster relief loans from the SBA is June 27, but Robert A. Dwyer, SBA Midwest director, said that deadline may be extended if the situation warrants.

He said persons needing loans will benefit if they file before giving it a 13-0 margin with nine members voting present and a few disappearing from the room.

SYDNEY (UPI) — An Australian scientist Thursday announced a plan for the purification of water.

George Cullen, manager of the metallurgy department at Melbourne University, said research workers discovered the process—which uses a brown coal "sponge" to remove bacteria from water polluted by sewage.

Tests on a Melbourne river, he said, showed that pollution rated 200 times above the safe swimming limit was reduced by 99.9 percent in two hours.

Cullen said in a statement the coal also could be used to treat industrial chemical solutions and waste.

"Research has shown that bacteria is easily absorbed by brown coal char," he said.

After absorption, Cullen said, the bacteria can be destroyed by heating the char, which can then be re-used.

He said the method was considerably cheaper than the standard method used today.

BIG FARMS PAID WELL TO HALT CROP PRODUCTION

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten farm operators in Illinois each received $50,000 or more from the government in 1972 for curtailing or halting crop production or complying with Agriculture Department conservation programs, according to figures released by Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill.

The largest amount, $37,101 was received by the C.H. Moore Trust Estate in De Witt County, the figures show. Next came Meadowlark Farms, Inc. of Perry County, which the figures show received $30,745.

The figures were released Wednesday.

Earlier this month Findley had published in the Congressional Record a full list of farm operators who received $20,000 or more in such funds—excluding loans—in 1972.

The list for Illinois contained 202 operators, who received a total of more than $6.6 million.

Other farm operators who were listed as getting more than $50,000 included: Adwell Corp., Adams County, $50,623; Consolidation Coal Co., Fulton County, $51,194; Pat and Mark Scates and others, Gallatin County, $50,232; Scully Trust, Grundy County, $50,453; Tallmadge Ranch Inc., Kankakee County, $62,017; and Cote Farms Inc., also in Kankakee County, $57,627.

Others listed as getting more than $50,000 were: Meyer & Schuring, McHenry County, $54,855 and Dixon Springs, Pope County, $53,874.

Farm operators listed as receiving between $40,000 and $50,000 were: Elott Rafferty Farms Inc., Alexander County, $42,846; Edward C. Sumner Jr., Iroquois County, $44,971; Herman F. Danekas, Ogle County, $49,604; Southwestern Coal Co., Perry County, $46,442; Behnken & Behnken, Randolph County, $43,812; Wilder Farms Inc., Whiteside County, $40,463, and W.D. Kilton Estate, Montgomery County, $42,146.

Adult Ed Director Asks For Opinions On Type Classes

School District No. 117 is in the process of planning the adult education class offerings for next year. Unlike the regular day school, there is no set curriculum for education. Classes are chosen according to community needs, public interest, and availability of teachers.

Richard Graff, Director of Adult Education, is seeking information from the public of District 117 regarding their interests and opinions. If anyone has a special interest in a specific class or in having some class offered in the adult program, he invites the person to call or write him, Richard Graff, at the School District 117 Central Offices, telephone 243-4334.

Not every suggestion will be able to be developed into a class this year, however, every effort will be made to investigate the possibility of getting a class started as soon as feasible. There are problems such as getting the subject matter developed, locating a teacher, and providing the finances to pay for materials and teachers.

These take a little time to work out.

Most classes need a low class fee charged to offset costs since there is not a large sum of money appropriated in the school budget to pay for adult education classes. Many classes which can be offered for high school credit receive a reimbursement from the State of Illinois which helps to keep class costs low.

Mr. Graff has plans to establish a community advisory committee to help make suggestions, review suggestions, and locate teachers for the adult program. He feels that this committee can be very beneficial in helping the program stay consistent with community needs and desires.

Gooding Gets 8-20 Years In Rape Case

A 22-year-old rural Scott county man was sentenced to serve from eight to 20 years in prison by Judge Paul Verticchio Friday morning after being convicted earlier by a Morgan county jury on a charge of rape.

Public Defender William Schildman and State's Attorney Edwin Parkinson argued motions before the court concerning much of the evidence presented at the trial.

Defendant Gets 4-Month Term In Court Case

Judge John B. Wright Friday morning ordered a Jacksonville man to spend four months at the Vandalia state penal farm on his plea of guilty to resisting a peace officer.

Billy R. Davis, 21, of 320 N. Pine entered his plea of guilty earlier to the offense and appeared for sentencing Friday morning. A second charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor was dropped on motion by Assistant State's Attorney David Bone.

Pate William Flowers, 20, of 204 W. Wolcott received a preliminary hearing on a two-count charge of burglary of two schools in Jacksonville April 19. One city police detective testified during the hearing. Judge Wright found probable cause and Flowers was bound over to the grand jury under $5,000 bond. He was returned to the county jail.

Carl L. Lawber, Jr., 18, of 401 W. Beecher, charged with theft of a small television set, received the appointment of the public defender and his case was continued to Friday, May 18, for a preliminary hearing.

Milt Williamson, 42, of Route 2, charged with forgery asked for additional time in which to attempt to hire his own defense attorney. His case was continued to Monday and he was returned to the county jail.

Jackie L. McGlasson, 24, of 343 S. Diamond was scheduled for a bench trial on charges of DUI and reckless driving but the cases were continued to be reset within two weeks. His attorney, William Schildman, was busy in another court room at the courthouse.

David E. Burns, 25, of Riggs-ton entered a plea of guilty to violation of a restriction on his driver's license and paid a fine of $10 and $10 court costs.

SCHOOLS TO HAVE FLOURIDE PROGRAM AT BEARDSTOWN

BEARDSTOWN — On May 15 and 16, a typically applied fluoride program will be held in the Beardstown schools.

Under the supervision of a dentist and the school nurse, the students in grades three through eight will be taught how to brush their teeth properly. When this is done, each child is given a supply of special fluoride cleaning paste which he brushes on his own teeth under the supervision of a nurse.

The whole program takes only 30 to 35 minutes and the benefits are good for a year. This program is being widely used throughout the state and is endorsed by the Illinois State Dental Society, the Beardstown dentists and has been approved by the Board of Education.

HOTEL FIRE KILLS FIVE

BROCKTON, Mass. (UPI) — At least five persons were killed Friday when a fire of suspicious origin roared through the old Ardmore Hotel, a four-story wooden structure in the downtown section.

One of the victims, Nicholas Bryant, 50, leaped to his death. Officials at Brockton Hospital said Bryant, a resident at the hotel, died of severe spinal injuries and a skull fracture shortly after he was brought in.

The other dead were not identified immediately. There were 15 known survivors.

Authorities said the entire center of the structure collapsed at the height of the blaze and it was feared that additional victims might be trapped in the rubble. Firefighters began searching through the debris shortly after day-break.

6-Month Term On Negotiated Plea Of Guilty

A former Beardstown young man was sentenced to serve six months at Vandalia state penal farm on his negotiated plea of guilty to contributing to the sexual delinquency of a minor by Judge Gordon Seaton Friday afternoon.

Richard Surratt, 19, of Jacksonville, formerly of Beardstown, had been scheduled for a trial without a jury Friday afternoon on the offense but withdrew his plea of innocent and entered a plea of guilty. Surratt was charged with having sex relations with a 14-year-old runaway from the state hospital on April 29.

Surratt was given credit for time already spent in jail since his arrest and returned to the county jail for transportation to Vandalia.

Charge Reduced
Two defendants who received bench trials April 30 were found guilty on reduced charges Friday afternoon and assessed fines of $200 and $10 court costs each.

Gary Wessel, 19, of Beardstown and Daum Kleinschmitt, 19, of Chapin were tried on charges of drag racing tested from an incident last September on West Morton Avenue near the intersection of South Diamond. Judge Seaton took the evidence under advisement at the time and indicated he would announce a decision later.

Friday afternoon, State's Attorney Edwin Parkinson formally reduced the charges against each defendant from drag racing to reckless driving. The court then found both guilty on the lesser offense.

In other court action, Laura M. Blaise, 16, of Alexander entered a plea of guilty to a charge of improper turning and paid a fine of $15 and $10 court costs.

Two sisters survive, Mrs. Lucille Sherman, San Diego, California and Mrs. Viola Edwards of San Bernardino, California.

Mrs. Magill was a member of Central Christian church. The remains are at Gilham-Buchanan Funeral Home. Arrangements are pending.

Gov. Walker, Mayor Daley To Hold Parley

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley and Gov. Daniel Walker will meet May 22 to discuss "various city and state matters," the mayor said Friday.

Daley said he and Walker agreed to meet last week when both attended the mayor's annual prayer breakfast.

Neither Daley nor Walker's press aide, Norton Kay, would comment on whether the meeting would include efforts to iron out their political differences.

When asked the significance of the meeting, Kay said, "Any time the governor of the state meets with the head of the state's largest city, it's important."

Discussing his relations with Daley and Cook County organization Democrats in the Illinois legislature, Walker said, "I said that we'll be able to work together on governmental problems. I'm sure we will."

Daley Democrats have blocked two Walker appointments, and Walker says he still has not decided whether to confirm Milton Pikarsky, Daley's choice to head the Chicago Transit Authority board.

Walker and Daley met Friday at the dedication of a new library in Chicago. Walker chatted with newsmen about his proposed meeting with the mayor and about tax relief for Illinois residents.

He said numerous legislative matters including the funding of public schools will be discussed.

He also predicted the General Assembly would approve tax relief in the form of an exemption on the state income tax for sales tax on food and medicine.

Walker said he preferred this form of relief to aid the moderate and low-income families.

BRUCE TO LEAVE MONDAY FOR PEKING

HONG KONG (UPI) — David Bruce, chief of the first U.S. diplomatic office in Peking in 24 years, will leave Monday for Peking to open the liaison office established after President Nixon's visit last year.

Bruce, accompanied by personal aide Brunson McKinley and China expert John Holderidge, will travel by train to Kwangchow, then fly to Peking, a spokesman said.

The spokesman said timing problems concerning the group's train arrival and the direct Kwangchow-Peking flight were solved Thursday, thus averting the possibility of a two-day delay in the departure from Hong Kong.

Bruce arrived four days ago and has held extensive consultations with American officials since. He also was honored at a reception given Wednesday by foreign newsmen and at a party given Thursday by U.S. Consul General David Osborn.

THE FISHING'S GOOD

WAGONER, Okla. (UPI) — The Oklahoma Tourism and Recreation Department said Thursday golfing was at a standstill on the Sequoyia State Park Golf course, flooded by as much as 16 feet of water.

But, a department spokesman said, catfishing was especially good over 15 of the 18 fairways.
